THE PRINCE IN RICHMOND.

A Lady Gives Some of Her Recollections of His Visit.

An interesting account of the visit to Richmond, of the Prince of Wales and his suite has been given to The Times by one of its lady friends, whose account is both interesting and accurate.

Governor John Letcher was the Chief Executive of Virginia, at the time of the Executive of Virginia, at the time of the Frince's vi-it, and it was determined that the Prince, on his arrival in the city, should be driven to the Executive Mansion in the Capitol Square and there received by the Governor and Mrs. Letcher before proceeding to the hotel. The lady who gives these reminiscences of his visit was invited by Governor and Mrs. Letcher to assist them in receiving the Prince, and was, as far as the writer knows, the only lady thus honored. There were then only two trains daily from the North—one arriving in the morning and the other some time after dark—and the Prince and his party were expected on the latter train. party were expected on the latter train. THE LIGHT POOR.

Court, I will sell, at public auction, on the premises, on MONDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1901, at 4 o'clock P. M., the following LOTS in Burfoot's Addition: Lots Nos. 12 and 13, Square No. 3, and Lots No. 5, in Square No. 7, in said addition, the first two lots fronting 33 feet each on the north side of Huil Street, and running back 120 feet to an alley 10 feet wide; the other fronts 33 feet on the south side of Hull Street, running back 157 feet to an alley 16 feet wide; all three lots lying between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth Streets.

At 4.45 o'clock P. M., or said day, I will As it was before the days of electricity, Richmond was not at that time as well british at a laboratory well lighted at night as at present, the flickering gas lamp being the only light-ing the city had. It was, therefore, plan-ned that the royal party should be driven down Grace Street to the Governor's Mansien in order to make as favorable an impression as possible on the visitor.

Two carriages, drawn by milk-white steeds, and equal in magnificence to anything that Cinderella ever took the air thing that Cinderella ever took the air in, were awaiting the royal party at the station to convey them to the Executive Mansion. Down in the Capitol Square all was suppressed excitement, A large crowd or people had assembled and waited in nervous expectancy to catch a glimpse of the Prince as he drove past, gradously smiling and bowing to the cheering throng. Even the squirrels caught the contagious excitement and cheering throng. Even the squirrels caught the contagious excitement and forebore to slumber, peering down from the branches of the trees on the crowd below. At the Executive Mansion all was ready to receive the future King of England. One can picture to himself a servant on the outlook ready to announce the approach of the royal party; in the parlor the ladies waiting to graciously receive the Prince, and His Excellency. receive the Prince, and His Excellency the Governor, nervously repeating to him-self the words which were later to fall extemporaneously from his lips as he welcomed the Prince of Wales to the hospitable shores of Virginia.

But alas, what a cruel disappointment there was in store! A half-hour passed and no Prince. People began to fidget and re-call with sadness the hasty suppor just over. One hour and still be comes not, and now it is beginning to be whispered about in low tones something about a wreck and a train delayed.

Two hours-the suspense is too greatthe truth must out; where is the Prince? And then the truth burst upon them all of a gudden. The Prince was at the Ex-change Hotel, and had been there an hour and a half! Then the surprised and morified assembly melled away like snow under the warm spring sum.

The fact was that on arriving at the station on Broad Street the royal party had taken the carriages prepared for them and the drivers had been ordered by the Duke of Newcastle to "drive to the hotel by back streets." AT ST. PAUL'S.

The next morning (Sunday) the Prince, "a handsome, beardless youth of eighteen," accompanied by his suite, attended St. Paul's church and heard the Rev.
Dr. Minigerode. After church the party visited the Capitol Square, impacted the Washington menument and made a formal call for about five minutes on the and Queen of the Belgians, the King of and Queen of the Belgians, the King of Hanover, the Duke of Cambildge, Prince Esterfazzy and others. I remember she was dressed in black silk velvet, with a stomacher of diamonds, as she was in mourning for her uncle, the Duke of Sussex. She was entirely unaffected, and whenever a piece of music seemed to please her, she would clap her hands with as much delight as a child. Her volce was very sweet and attractive thenever she spoke, and her whole manner was most engaging."

mal call for about twe minutes on the Governor. That afteenoon the Prince virited Hollywood, and the next morning departed for Washington.

"Did you ever see the late Queen Victoria," was asked the late, was gave this account of the Princes' visit.

"Yes," she said. "I was in London once when Her Majesty attended a philomonic concert at Hanover Source Roems, given by her order, at which there were ten crowned heads of Europe who were in London at the time. For five nours I sai within six feet of the Queen and observed her closely.

A NOTABLE ASSEMBLY. "She was accompanied by the Frince Consort, her mother, the Duchess of Kent; Adelaide, Queen Doweger; the Duke of Wellington ("The gron Duke"), the King Gevernor Streets, which the late Dr. Hunmanager.
